2011 Campaign Chair - Bruce Heldt

Together We Can Make the Community We Want

Human service providers in Lane County are incredible at helping people with their individual challenges. But experience has shown that a family with one human service need is likely to be a family with many needs. Meaningful success requires the aligned and coordinated efforts of multiple agencies working together over a longer period of time, to change a family's condition now and make a lasting difference over time.

As your 2011 United Way Annual Campaign Chair, I clearly see the need to promote cooperative efforts over an extended period of time to achieve significant solutions. The more people who can join this effort, the greater the success we can achieve. It's the power of compounding.

United Way has built its 2020 Goals to achieve meaningful outcomes in the strategic areas of Education, Income, and Health. These outcomes are the result of years of research and experience. They reflect the aspirations of our community as expressed in dozens of conversations with people from all walks of life. They are authentic and they are achievable. But we won't get there in one year. We have to be committed to our community for years to come. That is the basis for the 2020 Promise to the Community. A promise to stand united with us to make a healthier, safer, and more prosperous community.

If you really want to maximize the return on your investment of time, money, or advocacy, then promise to compound your passion and your commitment with the passion and commitment of others and support an effort that goes way beyond what you can do alone. We can do it together. We can make the community we want.
